

Happy July, Readers!

Our theatre community is coming back in full force. Impactful change is happening, theatre is thriving - and with that, CTG is thrilled to celebrate our beautiful theatre community this month for the 2022 Henry Awards. Along with change, I am thrilled to announce my return to the CTG Board, and as Chair to the wonderful Communications Committee that brings you our CTG Newsletter. With this return, I am looking forward to continuing the work of highlighting our community, the people in it, and to update you on all things CTG. Stay vibrant and stay tuned!

Rocky Mountain Artists' Safety Alliance and Colorado Theatre Guild present *Staging Theatre Intimacy: A Conversation on Community Standards

Please join us for an informational panel and workshop sponsored by the Colorado Theatre Guild and Rocky Mountain Artists' Safety Alliance (RMASA) focused on Staging Theatrical Intimacy best practices and how to incorporate safely staging intimacy in your productions. A Zoom link and recording will be available during and after the event for those who cannot attend on-site.

This 90 minute session will provide participants with an overview of the Community Standards for Theatre and specific tools/practices to take back to rehearsal, auditions, and performance. Leaders of the workshop will share techniques learned and implemented in the Colorado theatre community and provide participants with opportunity to practice, experience the work, and connect with others who are learning.

This workshop is FREE and open to the public. However we ask that you reserve your spot by RSVP'ing here: <https://bit.ly/3af9eqw>

The evening will feature CTG President, Betty Hart, Amanda Berg Wilson of The Catamounts, and trained intimacy coordinators/choreographers Carrie Colton (Metro State University), Tamara Meneghini (University of Colorado Boulder), and Samantha Engle - Owner of Humble Warrior Movement Arts.

It takes place on Monday, August 8th, 7-8:30pm in the Black Box Theatre space on Auraria Campus (Arts 271) located on the 2nd floor of the Arts Building on Auraria Campus, next to the library. Onsite parking is available; you may receive a parking pass as long as you park in the Holly Lot on Auraria Campus. The address is 777 Lawrence St, Denver, CO 80204.

Become a Henrys Judge!

Do you eat, sleep and breathe theatre?

Do you want to travel all over Colorado to see shows?

Do you have time to see at least 12 shows this season?

Do you have keen theatre discernment and are able to use a rubric?

If so, then you should be a Henry Judge!

Henry Judges see a wide variety of shows all over the state. If that sounds like fun to you, then submit your application today!
